I have a 2-year-old Dalmatian mix that I got from a rescuer when he was about 7 weeks old. As a puppy, he was very friendly and happy-go-lucky. As he's gotten older, he's become incredibly anxious, shy, and protective of me, and aggressive around strangers or people he's not used to meet. But don't worry to invite him to play with because if he is treated well, he will be nice and friendly.

He is about 23 inches tall. He weighs 55 pounds. He is a graceful, medium-sized dog with a sleek, muscular body. The tail is fairly long and has a slight upward curve. The coat is short and dense, with brown or black spots on white.

He is a highly energetic, playful and sensitive dog. He is aggressive toward other dogs.

9. What is the topic of the text?
- A. A puppy.
 - B. A rescuer.
 - C. A stranger.
 - D. A Dalmatian.

The last school holiday, I spent the time with my family on vacation to a relative's house in Madiun. It was approximately 6 hour trip by bus from our home in Malang.

On the way there, we saw many beautiful views such as rice fields and mountains. Having arrived at the uncle's house, we were greeted by our relatives who had not met us for a long time. When they saw my parents, they cried because they were so happy to meet up their relatives. The next day, we walked around the town of Madiun until the sky got dark. Finally we decided to go home at 6:00 p.m. on that day.

On the next day, I forgot that it was the New Year. Suddenly, one of my cousins came and asked me to celebrate the New Year's Eve together. At night, I went together with him to the center of the city which had already been so crowded because a lot of people also wanted to celebrate new year eve there. When the countdown started, the sky became so colorfully decorated by fireworks. We prayed together and watched the fireworks lightening the sky that night.

The holiday passed quickly. The last new year's holiday experience in Madiun was so impressive for me.

13. The text is about the writer's
- A. trip from Malang to Madiun
 - B. amazement at the new year eve's firework
 - C. experience in spending holidays to Madiun
 - D. feeling about having New Year holiday in Madiun

The Secret of Happiness

Once upon a time, there were three brothers named Samuel, Timothy and Xander, who lived in a cottage by the woods. They were honest and hardworking. Every day, they would venture into the forest looking for the fell wood. Their life continued in this manner. However, the brothers were always sad even they lived a good life.

One day, they met a poor woman who carried a sack and they offered her a help. They took turns in carrying the sack, and at last, when they reached her home, they felt very tired. This old woman was actually not an ordinary person. She had magical powers. She asked them whether there was anything she could give them in return. "We are not happy, and that has become our greatest cause of concern," replied Samuel. The woman asked what would make them happy. Each of them mentioned a different thing from one another. Then, she granted what they wished for, gave them several things and asked them to go home.

The days passed and soon a year was over. The situation was however, now different for Samuel, Timothy and Xander. They became rich men and it made them lazy to manage what they had got from the woman. In short, all of them were unhappy again.

One day, the three of them met up and decided to visit the old woman at her home. "That woman has magical powers which turned our dreams into reality. However, since we are no longer happy, we must go and seek her help now. It is she who will be able to tell us the secret to attaining happiness," said Samuel. Greeting her, each of the brothers recounted how he had turned unhappy again. "Please tell us how we can once more be happy," said Timothy. "Well," replied the old woman. "It is all in your own hands. See, when each of you made his wish and it was granted, you were happy. However, happiness never lasts without a very important thing – content. Earlier, since you were happy but never really content or satisfied, boredom and misery overcame you and you became sad again. Only if you learn to be content, can you truly enjoy the bliss of happiness."

The brothers realized their mistake and went back home. They saw how lucky they were to have the gifts for which they had once craved.

28. The text tells us about
- A. learning to be thankful for the blessing in life
 - B. teaching about hard works and efforts
 - C. sharing happiness to other people
 - D. trying to get a better life

The days passed and soon a year was over. The situation was however, now different for Samuel, Timothy and Xander. They became rich men and it made them lazy to manage what they had got from the woman. In short, all of them were unhappy again.

One day, the three of them met up and decided to visit the old woman at her home. "That woman has magical powers which turned our dreams into reality. However, since we are no longer happy, we must go and seek her help now. It is she who will be able to tell us the secret to attaining happiness," said Samuel. Greeting her, each of the brothers recounted how he had turned unhappy again. "Please tell us how we can once more be happy," said Timothy. "Well," replied the old woman. "It is all in your own hands. See, when each of you made his wish and it was granted, you were happy. However, happiness never lasts without a very important thing – content. Earlier, since you were happy but never really content or satisfied, boredom and misery overcame you and you became sad again. Only if you learn to be content, can you truly enjoy the bliss of happiness."

The brothers realized their mistake and went back home. They saw how lucky they were to have the gifts for which they had once craved.

30. What would probably happen if the woman did not help the three brothers?
- A. Three brothers would live happily.
 - B. They would travel around to find a happy life .
 - C. They would be sad and morose entire their life.
 - D. Three brothers would realize their own problem .

The Secret of Happiness

Once upon a time, there were three brothers named Samuel, Timothy and Xander, who lived in a cottage by the woods. They were honest and hardworking. Every day, they would venture into the forest looking for the fell wood. Their life continued in this manner. However, the brothers were always sad even they lived a good life.

One day, they met a poor woman who carried a sack and they offered her a help. They took turns in carrying the sack, and at last, when they reached her home, they felt very tired. This old woman was actually not an ordinary person. She had magical powers. She asked them whether there was anything she could give them in return. "We are not happy, and that has become our greatest cause of concern," replied Samuel. The woman asked what would make them happy. Each of them mentioned a different thing from one another. Then, she granted what they wished for, gave them several things and asked them to go home.

The days passed and soon a year was over. The situation was however, now different for Samuel, Timothy and Xander. They became rich men and it made them lazy to manage what they had got from the woman. In short, all of them were unhappy again.

Anggun was born in Jakarta, the capital of Indonesia, on 29th April 1974. Her full name is Anggun Cipta Sasmi. In Balinese, it means "a grace born out of a dream". Her father, Darto Singo, was a famous singer and producer in Indonesia and Anggun decided to follow in her father's footsteps. At the age of 7, she recorded her first album. At 12, after becoming interested in rock music, she recorded her second heavily rock influenced album, "Dunia Aku Punya", in Indonesian, it means "World of mine". This album became very well-known and made her a megastar in South-East Asia.

Her new album "Au nom de la lune", released in 1997, featured a mix of tracks recorded in English, French and even two songs in Indonesian. But it was the phenomenal success of Anggun's single "La neige au sahara" that would really establish the Indonesian star on the French music scene.

Following the chart success of "La neige au sahara", Anggun's album would really take off. "Au nom de la lune" would soon go on to sell more than 150,000 copies in France and Belgium. The album "Au nom de la lune" did not only rocket Anggun to fame in France, but also proves to be a major hit in the singer's homeland.

A long time ago, there lived on the island of Bali, a giant-like creature named Kebo Iwo. The people of Bali used to say that Kebo Iwo was everything, a destroyer as well as a creator. He was satisfied with the meal, but this meant for the Balinese people enough food for a thousand men.

Difficulties came when for the first time the barns were almost empty and the new harvest was still a long. This made Kebo Iwo wild with great anger. In his hunger, he destroyed all the houses and even all the temples. It made the Balinese turn to rage.

So, they make a plan to oppose this powerful giant by using his stupidity. They asked Kebo Iwo to build them a very deep well, and rebuild all the houses and temples that had been destroyed by Kebo Iwo

Kebo Iwo ate all of the food and then he began to dig a deep hole.

One day he had eaten too much, he felt asleep in the hole. The oldest man in the village gave a sign, and the villagers began to throw the limestone that they had collected before into the hole. The limestone made the water inside the hole boiling. Kebo Iwo was buried alive.

The water in the well rose higher and higher until at last it overflowed and formed Lake Batur. The mound of earth dug from the well by Kebo Iwo is known as Mount Batur.

36. The purpose of the writer in writing the text is to entertain the readers with the legend of
- A. the smart villagers

Seahorses are tiny fish that are named for the shape of their head, which looks like the head of a tiny horse. There are around 36 seahorse species, which are found in tropical and temperate coastal waters.

Seahorses' bodies are covered in tiny, spiny plates, all the way from their head down to their curled, flexible tail. The tail can grasp objects, which is useful to anchor themselves to vegetation. To move forward through the water, seahorses use their back fin. To move up and down, they adjust the volume of air in a tiny pocket inside their body.

The seahorse life-cycle is very unique. A female seahorse lays dozens, sometimes hundreds, of eggs in a pouch on the male seahorse's abdomen. Called a 'brood pouch', it's a bit like the pouch of a kangaroo, used for carrying young. Depending on the seahorse species, the eggs remain in the brood pouch for up to 45 days, until the eggs are ready to hatch. The new baby seahorses find other baby seahorses and float together in small groups, clinging to each other using their tails.

41. What does the text mostly talk about?
- A. Fishes named for their head's shape
 - B. How seahorses move in the water
 - C. How seahorses hatch their eggs
 - D. Shapes of small fishes' tail

A heat wave, by definition, is a period of time in which the temperatures are higher than normal for that region at that time of year. High humidity is often associated with a heat wave, though not a requirement.

When high pressure from aloft—10,000-25,000ft remains strong over an area for several days to weeks, heat wave occurs. This happens both in the Northern and Southern Hemispheres, during the summer as the jet stream, follows the path of the sun. On the equator side of the jet stream, high pressure builds up in the middle layers of the atmosphere.

People of all ages can get the effects of a heat wave, but the ill, very young, elderly, or overweight tend to be affected more severely. Heat exhaustion, which shows itself in symptoms such as vomiting, diarrhea, headache and nausea, can lead to dehydration.

If a heat wave continues for a longer period, crops and forests can become very dry making it possible for forest or brush fires to start and spread. Without rain, these fires can sometimes rage for days, causing loss to crops and livelihoods as well as homes and properties

48. After reading the text, the readers will
- A. know the detail information about the heat exhaustion and its effects.
 - B. know the detail information about the heat wave and its effects.
 - C. understand the common effects from the heat exhaustion
 - D. understand the common symptoms of dehydration.
